NEIL SMITH

PRESIDENT and GENERAL MANAGER

Born: January 9, 1954
Toronto, Ontario

Through the first six years of his tenure at the helm of the Rangers, Neil Smith has become one of the most successful men to ever run the club in the history of the franchise.

During his tenure, the Rangers have posted an overall record of 230-173-53, ranking sixth among all NHL teams through the six year stretch. New York has captured three divisional titles, two Presidents' Trophies, and one Stanley Cup Championship.

In 1993-94, Neil's diligence and persistence to build the Rangers into a Stanley Cup Championship winning club came to fruition on June 14 when the team captured the fourth Stanley Cup in franchise history, defeating Vancouver four games to three. The championship was the culmination of a record setting season in which New York set a club record with 52 wins and 112 points. The Rangers captured their second Presidents' Trophy in three years and became the first team since the Presidents' Trophy was established to win it, along with the Conference Championship and Stanley Cup in the same year.

Following the season, Neil was awarded with the Hockey News Executive of the Year Award. Neil was also honored by the New Jersey Sports Writer's Associations' as their Executive of the Year.

In his first three seasons as general manager after joining the Rangers on July 17, New York finished in first place twice, including the 1991-92 Presidents' Trophy and second place once, marking the best three consecutive finishes in club history.

Neil's outstanding accomplishments with the Rangers in 1991-92 were recognized following the season with two tremendous honors.

First, he was named the NHL Executive of the Year by The Sporting News, as voted by NHL general managers and governors, becoming the first Rangers executive to ever capture the award.

Then on June 19, 1992, he was promoted to the position of president and general manager, becoming the ninth president in Rangers history and the first president to also hold the title of general manager.

Neil has built the Rangers through his extraordinary ability to recognize talent and by making bold moves when necessary.

Through the NHL Entry Draft, Neil has added players like Sergei Nemchinov, Alexei Kovalev, and Mattias Norstrom to the Rangers roster, while loading the organization's depth chart with top prospects at every position: goaltenders Dan Cloutier, and Jamie Ram; defensemen Eddy Campbell, Mike Martin, Eric Cairns, Scott Malone, Lee Srooghan, Adam Smith, Maxim Galanov and forwards Peter and Chris Ferraro, Niklas Sundstrom, Dimitri Starostenko, Rudolf Vercik, Christian Dube, Marc Savard and Vladimir Vorobiev.

In addition, when given an opportunity to improve the club through trades or signing free agents, Neil has acted quickly to add even more talent to the Rangers lineup. He has made deals to acquire Mark Messier, Luc Robitaille, Ulf Samuelsson, Jeff Beukeboom, Kevin Lowe, Glenn Healy, Pat Verbeek and Nathan LaFayette and signed Adam Graves as a free agent. Neil made perhaps the boldest moves of his tenure on March 21, 1994, making trades to acquire Glenn Anderson, Craig MacTavish, Brian Noonan and Stephane Matteau at the deadline to help lead the team to the Stanley Cup.

During the off season, Neil continued to improve the club by adding free agents Ray Ferraro, Bruce Driver and Wayne Presley, while acquiring Robitaille, Samuelsson and Doug Lidster in trades.

A native of Toronto, Ontario, Smith played junior hockey at Brockville, Ontario, before entering Western Michigan University, where he became an All-America defenseman as a freshman and team captain in his second year. In September of 1991, Neil was inducted into the school's Hall of Fame, the first hockey player ever given the honor.

After being selected by the New York Islanders in the NHL Amateur draft and playing two seasons in the International Hockey League, Neil joined the Islanders scouting department during the 1980-81 season.

Following two seasons in that capacity, he joined the Detroit Red Wings in 1982 as director of professional scouting and soon after became director of their entire farm system.

Smith was then named director of scouting, and general manager/governor of the Adirondack Red Wings of the AHL, where he won two Calder Cup championships.

Neil, who is a board member of the National Child Abuse Prevention Center and with Ice Hockey in Harlem, was recently named to the board at DISHES, a charity for pediatric AIDS. He lives with his wife, Katia, in New York City.

COLIN CAMPBELL

HEAD COACH

Born: January 28, 1953
London, Ontario

Colin Campbell begins his second season as head coach of the Rangers after being named to the post on August 9, 1994. He was promoted to the position after serving in various capacities in the organization over the previous five years, including assistant coach, associate coach and half of the 1992-93 season as head coach of the Rangers American Hockey League affiliate at Binghamton. Colin made his head coaching debut on January 20 vs. Buffalo and earned his first NHL victory on January 21 vs. Montreal.

Campbell, 42, began his coaching career in 1985-86 with the Detroit Red Wings, following his retirement as a player after the 1984-85 season. He worked a total of five seasons as a Red Wings assistant coach, including one season under coach Harry Neale and four seasons under coach Jacques Demers.

The native of London, Ontario, joined the Rangers organization in August of 1990 as an assistant coach to Roger Neilson. He served in that role until January 4, 1993, when he became head coach of the Binghamton Rangers. He guided Binghamton to a record of 29-8-5, helping them set AHL records for wins (57) and points (124) in a single season.

On June 21, 1993, Campbell was promoted to associate coach of New York, under head coach Mike Keenan, helping the Rangers set team records for wins (52) and points in a season (112), while capturing the Presidents' Trophy and the Stanley Cup.

Before joining the coaching ranks, Campbell played 12 seasons of professional hockey as a defensive defenseman. After being drafted by the Pittsburgh Penguins as their third choice, 27th overall, in the second round of the 1973 Amateur Draft, he opted to join the Vancouver Blazers of the World Hockey Association where he was coached by former Rangers Phil Watson and Andy Bathgate.

Following one season in the WHA, he went on to play 11 seasons in the National Hockey League beginning with the Penguins in 1973-74. After two seasons with Pittsburgh he was dealt to the Colorado Rockies and played there for one year before being dealt back to Pittsburgh.

After two more years in Pittsburgh, he was claimed in the 1979 Expansion Draft by the Edmonton Oilers where he was teammates with Mark Messier and Kevin Lowe. Following his only season in Edmonton he was claimed by the Vancouver Canucks in the NHL Waiver draft where he played for two seasons. In 1981-82 he helped the Canucks to the Stanley Cup Finals under coach Roger Neilson, playing in 16 of 17 post-season matches.

Colin signed as a free agent with Detroit in July of 1982 and played for three seasons with the Red Wings before becoming an assistant coach with the club. He played in a total of 636 NHL contests, collecting 25 goals and 103 assists for 128 points along with 1,292 penalty minutes.

"Colie", who is a licensed pilot, owns and operates the Colin Campbell Hockey School in Tillsonburg, Ontario for three weeks each summer. He and his wife Heather reside in Rye, New York with their three children; daughters, Lauren and Courtney and son Gregory.

LARRY PLEAU

Larry Pleau, who joined the Rangers organization in August of 1989, enters his seventh season as the club's assistant general manager/player development.

Pleau assists Neil Smith, the team's president and general manager, with the development of all amateur players in the organization, while he also oversees the day-to-day operation of the Rangers scouting department. In addition, he works closely with Smith on player transactions and the selection of players at the NHL Entry Draft. Last season, Larry added the duties of general manager of New York's American Hockey League affiliate at Binghamton.

Pleau, who served as the assistant general manager for the 1991 United States Canada Cup Team, travels extensively throughout the year to Europe, Canada and across the United States to prepare for the draft and check on the development of Rangers prospects playing in high school, college, junior hockey or in Europe.

Pleau, 48, played three seasons with the Montreal Canadiens (1969-70 - 1971-72) in the National Hockey League, before being the first player signed by the Hartford Whalers of the World Hockey Association. He was a center/left wing for the Whalers from 1972 until his retirement in 1979. He played in a total of 468 regular-season games for Hartford, accumulating 157 goals and 215 assists for 372 points. Pleau also played for the 1968 United States Olympic Team, the 1969 U.S. National Team and for Team USA in the 1976 Canada Cup Tournament.

A native of Lynn, Massachusetts, Larry became an assistant coach with the Whalers in 1979. He remained in that position until Feb. 20, 1981, when he took the reins as head coach.

The following season he added to his responsibilities as head coach and became the club's director of hockey operations. During his tenure the Whalers drafted many current NHL players including; Ray Ferraro, Kevin Dineen, Ulf Samuelsson and Sylvain Cote.

After two seasons in that position and a year as assistant general manager under Emile Francis, Pleau became director of hockey operations and head coach of the Binghamton Whalers of the American Hockey League in 1984-85.

In his first season at Binghamton, he led the team to a first-place finish with a record of 52-20-8 and in his third season (1986-87) he guided the club to a mark of 47-26-7, as he was named the AHL's Coach of the Year.

Larry remained in Binghamton for three and a half seasons before returning to Hartford as head coach for the remainder of the 1987-88 campaign and all of the 1988-89 season.

Larry and his wife, Wendy reside in Seabrook, New Hampshire with their son, Steve, and daughter, Shannon. Steve recently completed his junior year at the University of New Hampshire, where he played on the school's hockey team.

ASSISTANT COACHES

Mike Murphy

Murphy, 44, began his coaching career as an assistant coach with the Los Angeles Kings on January 30, 1984. Murphy served briefly as a special assistant to the general manager after his retirement as a player with the Kings in October of 1983 before joining the coaching staff.

The native of Toronto, Ontario worked as an assistant to head coach Pat Quinn for three seasons until January 10, 1987 when he took over as the club's head coach. Murphy signed on as an assistant coach with Vancouver on March 3, 1988 following his career with Los Angeles. He was named head coach of the Canucks International Hockey League affiliate in Milwaukee for the 1990-91 season and guided the Admirals for one season before joining the Maple Leafs coaching staff.

Murphy was originally drafted by the Rangers in the second round, 25th overall, in the 1970 NHL Amateur Draft. He was named the CHL Rookie-of-the-Year with the Ranger minor league affiliate in Omaha in 1970-71. He was dealt to St. Louis in 1971-72 and then dealt back to New York in March of 1973. After appearing in 31 games with New York, tallying six goals and five assists, Murphy was then traded to Los Angeles on November 30, 1973 where he played for 10 and a half seasons, including six as the team captain. The right-winger tallied 238 goals and 318 assists for 556 points in 831 career matches.

On September 15, MSG Network launched a community outreach program called Yes! Make it Count! to benefit children's organizations. Derived from Marv Albert's popular and often imitated phrase—Yes! And it Counts!—MSG Network's program has been established to reach out and touch the lives of children. At MSG Network our goal is to make a difference—for the children of today are the leaders of tomorrow.

This comprehensive program primarily focuses on the following areas: helping to find a cure for birth defects and children's illness and disease; aiding in the prevention of child abuse; and putting homeless children in a safe, educational environment. MSG Network will also join the outstanding efforts of the YMCA in assisting their education/recreation program, participate in events featuring the Special Olympians, and support and reward good students in New York City public schools with visits from MSG Network personalities.

Yes! Make it Count! is a program where each MSG Network announcer serves as an active "Celebrity Chairman/Host" for a specific organization. During the course of the year the announcers will lend their time and energy to help raise awareness and funds for those organizations, by visiting to centers, hosting events, speaking about problems in our community, and conducting sports clinics. In addition to helping each organization raise funds and promote awareness MSG Network will encourage viewers to help in an area that is greatly underrated — volunteering.

Many children's organizations desperately need the support of local community volunteers. MSG Network will support all events through the production of Public Service Announcements and extensive on-air publicity.

MSG Network is working with its announcer-affiliated organizations in creating unique events specifically designed to "Make it Count!" For example, MSG Network and the Leukemia Society will host the "MSG Network Tip-an-Announcer Lunch" where eight MSG Network waiters (announcers) will raise funds by not allowing diners to have certain items, such as a fork, until a donation is made. Certain events will be held yearly, like the MSG Network Roast to benefit the March of Dimes.

Each year the Roast will "honor" one of our announcers.

A Brief History of The New York Rangers

The Rangers' Official Emblem

Celebrating their 70th season in the National Hockey League, the New York Rangers have thrilled fans with exciting hockey and notable achievements, most recently the club's proudest moment — the dramatic 1993-94 Stanley Cup championship.

After finishing atop the NHL during the regular season, the Rangers defeated the New York Islanders and Washington Capitals in the first two playoff rounds, then came from behind to win the Eastern Conference championship on Mark Messier's third period hat trick in Game Six and Stephane Matteau's double overtime goal in Game Seven against the New Jersey Devils. They defeated the Vancouver Canucks in another seven game thriller, with captain Mark Messier scoring the Stanley Cup-winning goal.

The Rangers' fourth Cup and the numerous franchise records set last season continued a long, distinguished history marked by outstanding team and individual performances. In the past five years, those performances have included three division titles and two Presidents' Trophy seasons for the NHL's best regular season record. But success is not new for the Rangers. From the outset, the club was among the best in the NHL.

The NHL granted Madison Square Garden a franchise to operate its own team for the 1926-27 season, following the initial success of the New York Americans, who began play in the Garden for the 1925-26 season and would become the Rangers first arch-rivals. Garden president G.L. "Tex" Rickard chose University of Toronto's Conn Smythe to build his team and Smythe assembled a talented roster, including future Hall of Famers Frank Boucher and Bill Cook, who with Cook's brother Bun formed hockey's top line; Hall of Fame defenseman Ivan "Ching" Johnson, who effectively teamed with Taffy Abel; and second line winger Murray Murdoch, who would become hockey's first "iron man," playing 508 consecutive games. Sportswriters dubbed the team "Tex's Rangers" and that was the origin of the club's name.

Prior to the start of their first season, however, disagreements with the Garden management caused Smythe's exit. On the eve of the club's first season, the task of guiding the Rangers was handed to one of professional hockey's pioneers, Lester Patrick, who grew to be the Big Apple's most visible and quotable hockey man. Patrick directed the Rangers to a first place finish in their opening season (with Bill Cook winning the league scoring title) and, led by Boucher's scoring heroics, their first Stanley Cup in 1927-28. It was the last time an NHL team has won the Cup as quickly as its sophomore campaign. During Game Two of the 1928 Finals against the Montreal Maroons, the 44-year old Patrick substituted for injured goaltender Lorne Chabot in one of hockey's legendary moments.

With hard, clean play and innovative tactics, the Rangers became known as "the classiest team in hockey," going to the Finals four times in six years. Regularly among the leaders in assists, Boucher epitomized the club's style, winning the Lady Byng Trophy so frequently, the league allowed him to keep the original silverware and struck a new award. Bill Cook won a second scoring title in 1932-33 and in April, his overtime goal in Game Four of the Finals gave the Rangers a 1-0 win over Toronto and their second Stanley Cup title. Cecil Dillon's scoring and Andy Aitkenhead's goaltending led the way for Patrick's club.

In their first 16 seasons, the Rangers missed the playoffs only once, and only twice did they fall lower than third place. New York won three regular-season championships in that span, finished second five times and third on six other occasions. The Garden became the place to be on nights the Rangers played, attracting a "dinner-jacket" crowd which often included other sports figures, Broadway entertainers, New York's society elite and City Hall politicians. The Rangers built an empire and New Yorkers loved it.

The Original Rangers gave way to a new group of stars in the late 1930s. Patrick acquired goalie Davey Kerr from the Maroons in 1934 and defenseman Art Coulter from Chicago in 1936 and they became the backbone of the next great Rangers team, which lost a five game Final to Detroit in 1937. Three seasons later, Boucher succeeded Patrick as coach and the Rangers won the Cup again. The 1940 Rangers were led by the dangerous line of Hall of Famer Neil Colville, his brother Mac and Alex Shibicky. Hall of Famer Bryan Hextall, Phil Watson, Dutch Hiller, Alf Pike, Clint Smith, Kilby MacDonald and Lester's son Lynn gave Boucher great depth up front. Lester's other son Muzz helped form a solid defense corps with captain Coulter, Babe Pratt and Ott Heller. Hextall's overtime goal against Toronto in Game Six of the 1940 Finals was the decisive tally in the Rangers third Cup championship.

Two years later, the Rangers finished atop the league with the Watson-Patrick-Hextall line dominating league scoring. But World War II had already begun breaking up this collection of Ranger All-Stars. In the years that followed, the club struggled. In the next 13 seasons, the club only made the playoffs twice. Still the Rangers featured outstanding individual talents. Buddy O'Connor became the first Ranger to win the Hart Trophy as NHL MVP in 1947-48 and goalie Chuck Rayner won the Hart in 1949-50, the year the Rangers lost a seven game overtime Stanley Cup Final to the Red Wings. Edgar Laprade, Hy Buller and Bones Raleigh were standouts in the late Forties and early Fifties.

In the 1950s, a fertile farm system and some deft trades improved the team's fortunes. Hall of Famers Andy Bathgate, Dean Prentice, Harry Howell, Bill Gadsby and Gump Worsley, along with Camille Henry, Andy Hebenton and "Leapin' Louie" Fontinato helped the team back into the playoffs in mid-decade. Bathgate, who became the club's captain and all-time leading scorer, won the Hart Trophy for the 1958-59 season. Hebenton played 560 consecutive games as a Ranger and Howell became recognized as one of hockey's best defensemen and was awarded the Norris Trophy in 1966-67.

A Rangers Renaissance began in 1960s, directed by coach and general manager Emile Francis. Beginning in 1966-67, the club made the playoffs nine consecutive seasons, the only NHL team of the period to accomplish that feat. Led by Rod Gilbert, who eclipsed Bathgate's club scoring records, and his linemates Jean Ratelle and Vic Hadfield, the Rangers were again an NHL powerhouse. All three became All-Stars during the period as did defenseman Brad Park and goalie Ed Giacomin. Reliable two-way players like Pete Stemkowski, Steve Vickers and Walt Tkaczuk helped round out the team. In 1971-72, Hadfield became the first Ranger to score 50 goals in a season and that year the Rangers faced Boston in the Stanley Cup Finals, losing a tough six-game series.

Following a two-year absence from post-season play in the mid-1970s, a new group of Rangers emerged led by stars Anders Hedberg, Ulf Nilsson, Barry Beck, Ron Greschner, Phil Esposito, John Davidson, and the Maloney brothers, Dave and Don. The Rangers dramatically marched to the Stanley Cup Finals in 1979, defeating their new arch-rivals, New York Islanders in the semi-finals before bowing to the Montreal Canadiens in a five game Final. While the Rangers would not reach the Finals again until 1994, they built a good team and it took the best teams to defeat them. Beginning in 1979, the clubs that eliminated the Rangers in the playoffs over each of the next nine seasons all went to the Finals or won the Stanley Cup.

The hiring of Neil Smith as general manager of the Rangers in 1989 began the process which led to the 1994 Stanley Cup championship. Smith acquired center Mark Messier from Edmonton for the 1991-92 season and Messier led the club to the top of the league and was recognized for his efforts by winning the Hart Trophy that season. Messier became the driving force that propelled the Rangers to the Stanley Cup. Through timely trades, keen drafting and opportunistic free agent signings, Smith pieced together as talented a club as the Rangers ever had. The emergence of new superstars like Brian Leetch, Mike Richter and Adam Graves, who broke Hadfield's 50 goal mark in 1993-94, as well as a wealth of potential star players make the future of the New York Rangers brighter than ever.

STEVEN McDONALD AWARD

Following the 1987-88 season, the Rangers, in conjunction with Mitsubishi Motors, established a new award dedicated to paralyzed New York City police officer Steven McDonald. The award was named the Steven McDonald "Extra Effort Award", and is presented annually to the Rangers player "who goes above and beyond the call of duty," as Steven did as a New York City police officer. The winner is chosen by Rangers fans who vote on the award from February through April.

McDonald, a lifelong Rangers fan, was shot in the line of duty on July 12, 1986, in Central Park. He spent 18 months in the hospital and watched video tapes of each Rangers game during his recovery. Several Rangers players visited him in the hospital and presented him with a jersey.

He grew up listening to Rangers games on the radio and watching on television but had never been to a game in person. His heroes included Eddie Giacomin, Brad Park, and Jean Ratelle. He now attends a good number of games during the season, sitting at ice level in the zamboni entrance.

The inaugural winner of the award was Jan Erixon in 1987-88. NHL rookie-of-the-year finalist Tony Granato captured the award in 1988-89 before Kelly Kisio and John Vanbiesbrouck were named co-winners in 1989-90. Jan Erixon became the first repeat winner of the award in 1990-91. Adam Graves captured the prestigious award for three consecutive seasons, from 1991-92 to 1993-94.

The 1994-95 recipient was team captain, Mark Messier. Messier led the club in scoring with 53 points in his fourth season with the club. Along with the trophy, Messier received a 1995 Mitsubishi Eclipse, courtesy of Mitsubishi Motors, while Mitsubishi also presented their annual check for $15,000 to the Steven McDonald Foundation.

LARS-ERIK SJOBERG AWARD

For the sixth consecutive year, the New York Rangers, in conjunction with the Professional Hockey Writer's Association, presented the Lars-Erik Sjoberg Award, symbolic of the best rookie in training camp.

Sjoberg a, 180-pound defenseman, came to North America in 1974 after a distinguished nine-year career in Sweden, along with fellow countrymen Anders Hedberg and Ulf Nilsson. The trio were three of an unprecedented six Europeans signed by the Winnipeg Jets of the World Hockey Association, that year helping blaze the trail for Europeans to play in the NHL. Sjoberg, who served as Jets team captain for five seasons, led the Jets to three WHA Championships during the 1970's. "Pound-for-pound, he was one of the best defensemen who has ever played the game," said Jets teammate Bobby Hull.

Sjoberg joined the Rangers staff on July 22, 1980 when he was named as the team's European Scout. He held that position until he passed away in October of 1987. In his time with New York, the Rangers drafted several European players who went on to play in the National Hockey League including, Reijo Ruotsalainen, Jan Erixon, Peter Sundstrom, Tomas Sandstrom, Kjell Samuelsson and Ulf Dahlen.

The 1994 recipient of the award was defenseman Mattias Norstrom. The native of Stockholm, Sweden captured the award for the second consecutive season while appearing in his second training camp with the Rangers. Norstrom was selected in the second round, 48th overall in the 1992 NHL Entry Draft.

Previous winners of the award include Peter Andersson in 1992, Tony Amonte 1991, Steven Rice in 1990 and Troy Mallette in 1989. The inaugural winner of the award was Mike Richter in 1988.

Walt MacPeck of the Newark Star-Ledger presents Mattias Norstrom with the Lars-Erik Sjoberg award symbolic of the best rookie in training camp.

How Chemical helped Penn-Plax Inc. turn goldfish into a gold mine.

"When Anita Goldman, her sister Roz, and her brother-in-law Jerry Rosen opened a fish and hobby shop in Brooklyn in the late fifties, they had no idea of the treasure they were about to discover under the sea.

Before long, Anita's husband Marvin was developing novel aquarium ornaments and accessories with his brother Jerry. Their products quickly dazzled not only the store's customers, but also their colleagues in the pet product trade.

And with wholesale orders coming in faster than they could fill them, the family created Penn-Plax Inc. in 1959.

Today, Penn-Plax is one of the world's leading manufacturers of fish and pet products – with sons Terry and Rick Goldman playing a leading role in the company's success.

And thanks to its best-selling S.A.M. (Small Animal

But for all their dramatic growth over the years, one thing is exactly the same: their bank.

So when the Goldmans required capital for European distribution, Chemical was there for them. Just like always.

It's all part of Chemical's enduring commitment to growing businesses and the people who own them – a commitment that's made their relationship managers #1 in business house calls, and made Chemical the leading bank for business in the tri-state area.

The Goldmans know what it means to aim for the top. That's why they're in Tom Seaver's Business Hall of Fame.

Because to make it in this town, you gotta have a dream. And you gotta have a bank that shares it."
